Enemies and Neighbours: Arabs and Jews in Palestine ? A Historical and Sociopolitical Examination

The relationship between Arabs and Jews in Palestine has been a complex, multifaceted narrative marked by conflict, cooperation, identity struggles, and profound historical shifts. This intricate tapestry of interactions has shaped the modern Middle East and continues to influence regional and global geopolitics. To understand the roots, evolution, and present realities of this relationship, it is essential to explore the historical contexts, socio-political developments, and cultural dynamics that have defined Arabs and Jews as both neighbors and adversaries in Palestine.

Historical Foundations: From Ottoman Palestine to the British Mandate

Pre-20th Century Palestine: Coexistence and Divergence

Long before the modern conflict emerged, Arabs and Jews coexisted in Palestine under Ottoman rule for centuries. The Ottoman Empire, which controlled the region from 1517 until the early 20th century, was characterized by a relatively tolerant, though hierarchical, society. Arab Muslims formed the majority population, with Christian and Jewish minorities residing in cities like Jerusalem, Hebron, and Safed.

Notably, Jewish communities in Palestine had deep historical roots, with vibrant neighborhoods such as the Old City of Jerusalem and other towns hosting centuries-old Jewish populations. While coexistence was not without tensions, it was generally characterized by pragmatic coexistence and shared local interests.

Rise of Zionism and Arab Nationalism

The late 19th century marked a turning point. The emergence of Zionism, a movement advocating for the establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine, began to reshape demographics and geopolitical aspirations. The First Zionist Congress in 1897, led by Theodor Herzl, galvanized Jewish immigration (Aliyah) to Palestine, leading to increased Jewish presence and land purchases.

Simultaneously, Arab nationalism was gaining momentum, emphasizing independence and the preservation of Arab identity and sovereignty. Arabs in Palestine viewed the increasing Jewish immigration with suspicion and concern, fearing displacement and marginalization. These diverging national aspirations set the stage for future tensions.

Key factors during this period include:

- Increased Jewish land acquisitions facilitated by organizations like the Jewish National Fund.
- Arab opposition to land purchases and fears of demographic change.
- The issuance of the Ottoman Land Code (1858) and subsequent land restrictions affecting Arab and Jewish settlers differently.

British Mandate Period (1917-1948): Intensification of Conflict

The Balfour Declaration and Its Aftermath

In 1917, the British government issued the Balfour Declaration, expressing support for a "national home for the Jewish people" in Palestine. This declaration, while promising to safeguard the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities, was perceived by Arabs as a betrayal of promises made during World War I for independence.

The subsequent British Mandate for Palestine (1920-1948) intensified the demographic and political tensions, as Jewish immigration escalated under British auspices. Arab residents, perceiving a threat to their land and sovereignty, organized protests, strikes, and violence.

Key Arab-Jewish Conflicts During the Mandate

- The 1920 Nebi Musa riots and 1921 Jaffa riots reflected rising tensions.
- The 1936-1939 Arab revolt against British policies and Jewish immigration.
- The development of paramilitary groups: Arab militias like the Husseini-led Arab Higher Committee and Jewish groups such as the Haganah.

Major issues during this period included:

- Land disputes and fears of displacement.
- Political mobilization and the rise of communal identities.
- British policies often caught between Arab and Jewish demands, leading to escalating violence.

Partition and the Creation of Israel: 1947-1948

The United Nations Partition Plan

In 1947, the United Nations proposed a partition plan to divide Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab states, with Jerusalem as an international city. While Jewish leaders accepted the plan, Arab leaders rejected it, viewing it as unfair and illegitimate.

War and Aftermath

Following the announcement of the partition plan, violence intensified, culminating in the 1948 Arab-Israeli War after Israel declared independence. The war resulted in:

- The establishment of the State of Israel.
- The displacement of approximately 700,000 Palestinian Arabs, known as the Nakba ("catastrophe").
- The transformation of the region into a battleground of competing narratives.

This period cemented the deep-seated enmity and distrust between Arabs and Jews, with lingering disputes over land, refugees, and sovereignty.

Post-1948 Developments: Ongoing Conflict and Attempts at Peace

Arab States and Palestinian Responses

The Arab world responded to the creation of Israel with military interventions, multiple wars (1956, 1967, 1973), and political opposition. Palestinians, dispersed and stateless, engaged in uprisings (Intifadas) and diplomatic efforts to achieve self-determination.

Israel's Expansion and Settlement Policies

Since 1967, Israel's occupation of the West Bank, Gaza Strip, and East Jerusalem has intensified tensions. Settlement expansion, military control, and restrictions on Palestinian movement have fostered resentment and hostility.

Peace Processes and Their Limitations

Various attempts have been made to resolve the conflict:

- The Oslo Accords (1990s): mutual recognition but limited progress.
- The Camp David Summit (2000), Annapolis Conference (2007), and others: ongoing negotiations largely stalled.
- The persistent cycle of violence, including Gaza conflicts and settler violence, underscores the deep-rooted mistrust.

Cultural, Religious, and Social Dimensions

Religious Significance and Identity

Jerusalem and other sites in Palestine hold profound religious significance for Jews, Muslims, and Christians. Control over these sites has often been a flashpoint for conflict.

Community Narratives and Memory

Both Arabs and Jews maintain narratives centered on historical grievances, victimization, and sovereignty. These collective memories influence current attitudes and policies.

Key aspects include:

- The Jewish narrative of return and resilience.
- The Palestinian narrative of dispossession and resistance.
- The role of education, media, and political rhetoric in shaping perceptions.

Social Interactions and Coexistence Efforts

Despite hostility, there have been numerous grassroots initiatives aimed at fostering dialogue, understanding, and coexistence:

- Joint Israeli-Palestinian NGOs.
- Interfaith dialogues.
- Cultural exchanges and joint economic ventures.

However, political and ideological divides often overshadow these efforts.

Current Realities: Enmity, Neighbourhood, and the Future

Geopolitical Dynamics

The Arab-Israeli conflict remains a significant source of regional instability. Neighboring Arab states often play mediating roles but also have their own geopolitical interests.

Palestinian and Israeli Perspectives

- Palestinians seek an independent state based on 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital.
- Many Israelis prioritize security concerns and recognition of Israel as a Jewish state.
- Both communities harbor deep mistrust, reinforced by violence and failed peace initiatives.

The Role of External Actors

The United States, European Union, Arab League, and United Nations influence diplomatic efforts, but their involvement often reflects broader geopolitical interests.
